Overview of Study Area

Gaps in existing system

- Ad hoc institutional arrangement – unable to enforce existing regulations
- Less coordination due to present administrative boundary, which follows river boundary
- No proper line agency to deal with river basin
- Less coordination between public and private sectors

Suggestions

Short term:

- Establish regulatory body for river basin management represented by all stakeholders
- Define roles and responsibilities of all stakeholders
- Establish appropriate coordination mechanism at grass root level – River basin coordination committee

Suggestions

Long term:

- Establish Maha Oya river basin authority (government level) with clear roles and responsibility
- Establish administrative boundary based on watershed boundary
